

The floor plan of the second floor of the University of Illinois at Chicago shows a complex arrangement of rooms. The top left section is a large, irregularly shaped area with a diagonal hatching pattern, possibly representing a courtyard or a large open space. To the right of this area is a central corridor and a staircase. The right side of the plan features several rectangular rooms, each labeled with its name and dimensions: CONFERENCE (30'-0" x 21'-0"), OFFICE (14'-0" x 21'-0"), OFFICE (14'-0" x 21'-0"), OFFICE (14'-0" x 21'-0"), and OFFICE (14'-0" x 21'-0"). Below these rooms is a large, irregularly shaped area with a diagonal hatching pattern, possibly representing a courtyard or a large open space. The bottom left section is a large, irregularly shaped area with a diagonal hatching pattern, possibly representing a courtyard or a large open space. The bottom right section is a large, irregularly shaped area with a diagonal hatching pattern, possibly representing a courtyard or a large open space. The plan also includes a central corridor and a staircase.
